Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a system for transmitting and receiving image data to and from an external device connected to a network and, more particularly, to an apparatus and method for transmitting and receiving image data to and from a plurality of external devices connected to a network. 2. Description of the Related Art Conventionally, in an apparatus which is connected to a network and processes image data, a method of setting the address of a printer connected to the network within an operating system is used in, for example, Windows 98. Furthermore, when the printer is shared by a plurality of users, a method of registering a printer driver in an operating system and using the printer driver to print images, as described in a Japanese Non-Examined Patent Publication No. 9-230934, is used. Further, in Japanese Non-Examined Patent Publication No. 11-268905 and Japanese Non-Examined Patent Publication No. 2000-55892, a method of transmitting image data by transmitting data files such as, for example, JPG files, is used. However, in the conventional example described above, since only a single address is set as the printer address, the printer cannot be recognized when two or more computers are connected to the network. Further, when a printer is shared by a plurality of users and is not registered as a printer in an operating system, printing cannot be performed. Furthermore, when the address of the printer is set within the operating system, since the setting is limited to the operating system, the printer cannot be used when, for example, it is
