Paulo Henrique Amorim Paulo Henrique Amorim (born 22 November 1956) is a retired Brazilian hurdler who competed in the men's 110 metres hurdles. He became the first Brazilian, and third overall, to win the final of an individual race at the World Cup. Amorim ran a career best time of 13.83 seconds and set a world record in the process, when he won the final of the 1986 World Cup in Madrid. Earlier in the same competition, Amorim had cleared 13.88 seconds, a record that would last for two years. He was the first man in the outdoor track and field competition ever to jump over 13.50 seconds, which he did at the 1987 Pan American Games. He represented his native country at the 1988 Summer Olympics and finished in fifth place. Personal bests All information taken from All-
